umos of the COURTER-JOURNAL, however, are as free to his friends as his enemies, and we do not pretend to be advised as to the truth or falsity of any charges which reach us from responsible sources, about topics concerning which it is not our business to A Tangled Web. The financial situation continues to be, what it has been almost since the close of the war, the most pressing and trouble-some subject the American people and Congress have to deal with. It is a difficulty, we are beginning to ece, that will not settle itself. We also shrink from treatso t settle itself. We also ahrink from freating it by any very heroic or radical method, seeing, as we cannot also seeing, that any laterierence, however alight is sure to make itself felt, most instantaneously, throughout the length and breadth of the land. The President, in his message, approaches it with timidity and embarranement; and does not get very far beyond a statement of the evils under which we are suffering, which he very properly ascribes.

Meantime Congress will, of take the matter in hand, and if

t was by Government interf

casonably expect to see the vexed

statement of the evils under which we are suffering, which he very properly ascribes to an irredeemable currency, and an earnest recommendation to Congress to reform the same at an early day. So far as the currency is concert ed, the Secretary of the Treasury offers no solution. His attention is occupied with schemes for refunding the bended debt at a lower rate of interest, and he would postnone action upon interest, and he would postpone action upon the greenback question until that object is accomplished. We have yet to hear, how-

It is not sufficiently to the president to have been any exiliproceed. It is not sufficiently to the president to any exiliproceed. It is not sufficiently whatever the military force under his command may be. Peace with war expenditures, peace on a war footing, is not the kind of peace that the country supposes itself to have bargained for.

Thus the Illinois Senator, so long regarded as a bold conservative, astonishes the country by exhibiting himself as one of the most andacious of destructives. He doesn't permit even Senator Drake, of Miscouri, to outstrip him in the Radical sweepstakes. The language of his bill has a strange sound in mea's cars in time of peace. If it becomes a law, all civil law in peace. If it becomes a law, all civil law in sweepstakes. The language of his bill has a strange sound in mea's cars in time of peace. If it becomes a law, all civil law in the Staten named in it, Virginia and Texas, will be all in all. "The President," says the bill, "is hereby directed to hold and proceed with all prisoners held in said state, by millary proceding or authority whatsoever." Why Micriscippi was not included in the bill with Virginia and Texas, it would no doubt puzzle Mr. Trumbull himself to explain. What ease the resson of the difference practice repudiation? Is the resson of the difference practice repudiation? And yet people, who profess to be shocked at the very suggestion of repudi-ation, will talk to you of Boutwell's report-as a model of wisdom and honesty and henor! Radicalism makes strange havoc of men's financial morals.

The Chicago Tribune, which is generally regarded as one of the most rational, as it is certainly one of the ablest, of the Radical ergans, doesn't propose to or the radical ergain, doesn't propose to cut down the prerogatives of the Supreme Court, but holds that the Government is under no obligation to enforce that tribul-nal's decisions. A POSSEELE CONTENSION.

It may floasibly cesse about that the ten who voted to-day for Finley (I mean those elected to the Legalizativer as Republicans or Radicale) will have the power of deciding the content between Stevenson and McGreory. In such a contingency, I understand the Stevenson mean are reconsing upon receiping their support, partly, perhaps, because of the report, which has been so long and as extensively in circulation through the press and otherwise, that the Governore favors negro testimony. If such be their calculations, I incline to the ordinary that they will be disappointed; for, unless I am decided, the Keutschy Reds are much loo ahrewd by any action of theirs new to estop themselves from opposing the admission of Sievenson into the best of the ten of the ten of the pressure of the two and to morrow noon with bring forth, but I still feel condicince that I sither of the two leading candidates is to prove successful Thos. By some ally of the foot he dropped partly through the shafts of the wagon, pust behind the horse, when the latter started at a break-next proced down Dhird street toward the river. The driver was thrown back with his head on the street, under the body of the wagon, while his fact were still entangled in the shafa. In this position, he was dragged over the rough and muddy street, down the wharf, till the horse ran Into a pile of barrels. All who saw the runesway expected his death, and nothing less; but he succeeded in freeling himself, crawled out from under the wagon, and, taking his seak, drove away. He claimed that the sphurbs he held. She claims the animal because she holds a bill of male in her name. This was the third train of the case before a harr. On the first and second trains, the jury bung; on the third, they awarded possession to the daughter, the court having ruied out as irrelevant all testimopysas to the cover-hip of the money with which the cow was beught. Mr. Mills will appear the care to the Jefferson Court of Common Pleas.
